Circuit Court

Notice of Rights and Obligations
Indian Child Welfare Act

		Case Number
Name	Date of Birth	County

The child/juvenile is alleged to be in need of protection or services, and the proceeding is subject to the Indian Child Welfare Act.

You have the right to:

- request counseling.
- know the nature and possible consequences of the proceedings:
 - custody hearing: to determine whether the child/juvenile should be placed or remain in custody;
 - future hearings: to determine if the allegations are true and whether any disposition should be imposed.
- remain silent:
 - The silence of any party in a non-delinquency proceeding may be relevant and considered by the court.
- confront and cross-examine witnesses.
- present and subpoena witnesses.
- an attorney:
 - If the child/juvenile desires to be represented by an attorney, the public defender shall appoint an attorney. Parents may be required to reimburse the state or county for the attorney and to contribute toward the expenses of post-adjudication services to the child/juvenile, including alcohol or drug treatment or education.
 - If the parents or Indian custodian desire to be represented by an attorney and cannot afford an attorney, the public defender may appoint an attorney.
- intervene at any point in the proceeding, if a parent or Indian custodian is not already a party.
- request up to 20 additional days to prepare for the initial proceeding.
- request transfer to tribal court.
- have the allegations proven by clear and convincing evidence.
- a trial:
 - In juvenile in need of protection or services proceedings: to the court
 - In child in need of protection or services proceedings: to the court or a jury.
- a substitution of judge if the request is made before the end of the plea hearing and the law does not otherwise prohibit a substitution.

Potential consequences of this proceeding may include:

- removal of child/juvenile from the home of the parent(s), guardian, or Indian custodian.
- placement outside the home, including a relative home, foster home, group home, or residential care center.
- a finding that the child/juvenile is in need of protection or services.
- a dispositional order entered containing specific conditions of supervision and/or return.
- transfer of legal custody.
- potential grounds for future termination of parental rights.

I have received a written copy of the above rights and obligations.
